

GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.

AUSTIN, TEXAS.
April 3, 1923.

Hon. S. L. Staples,
Secretary of State,
Austin, Texas.

SB 107

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I am filing with you, together with my disapproval and veto, Senate Bill No. 107 and House Bill No. 60.

It was necessary that these two bills be considered together, and that either both of them should be vetoed, or both of them should be approved. The two bills deal with the separation of the Department of Insurance from the Department of Insurance and Banking. I do not deem it for the best interests of the State at this time for these two bills to become laws. In view of the fact that the Legislature is to be in session within the coming two weeks, I deem it to the best interests of the State that these two bills be vetoed and after further investigation if it is deemed wise to have the Insurance Department separated from the Banking Department, and create in keeping with the provisions of these bills what is known as the Department of Insurance, the matter can be submitted to the Special Session of the Legislature. Both bills are herewith filed with you and each is disapproved and vetoed, as provided by law.

Respectfully,

Governor.
